

IS PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE THE AVAILABILITY OF THE

James R. Clay Scholarship

The James R. Clay Scholarship continues former CEO Jim Clay's legacy of supporting insurance education for the next generation of industry professionals. The scholarship is intended to help college and university students pursuing careers in insurance, risk management and insurance-related fields. During Clay's 35-year tenure at Westfield, he demonstrated a persistent focus on attracting both youth and adults to the insurance industry, elevating the significance of employment opportunities available now and in the future – across the country and locally in Ohio, where Westfield is headquartered. This was evidenced through his service as a trustee of the Griffith Insurance Education Foundation and the Property and Casualty Insurers Association of America. Clay was selected by Ohio Governor John Kasich to co-chair the Insurance Industry Resource Council, a collaboration of 13 Ohio insurance companies that have aligned for a statewide career awareness initiative to address the coming industry talent gap.
